

A vintage teal Airstream trailer is parked on a wooden deck in a forest at dusk. The trailer's door is open, revealing a warm interior. A brown towel hangs from a handle on the side of the trailer. To the right of the trailer, a small wooden table holds a lantern and other items. In the foreground, a white hot tub is partially visible, with a brown towel draped over its edge. String lights hang from the trees in the background, and a potted plant with red flowers sits on a wooden railing to the right. The overall atmosphere is cozy and rustic.

VISION

The Hudson Valley, home to the Catskill Mountains and just 1.5 hours from NYC, attracts visitors year-round. Its charming towns like Woodstock, Livingston Manor, and Beacon draw crowds for serene beauty, trails, hikes, and ski slopes. Tourism has surged, with hotel room shortages and wedding venues booked through 2026. Land prices, once stagnant, are now rising as the area grows.

Luxury properties like The Chatwal Lodge and Urban Cowboy Lodge operate at near full occupancy, with rates of $700-$2,500 per night and more projects in the pipeline.

Building hotels faces delays, high costs, and labor shortages. To address these challenges, we plan to use vintage RV trailers remodeled into luxurious accommodations, offering a unique nature experience. This approach requires fewer permits, minimal labor, and enables faster market entry within 6-9 months.

CONCEPT

Our mission is to craft an experience where guests can reconnect—with nature, themselves, and their loved ones—immersed in the embrace of elegant luxury. This is a space to create, to dream, to love—a sanctuary of sensuality and serenity.

Every detail is meticulously curated, from the finest Italian linens to thoughtfully chosen materials that are both functional and durable, ensuring a guest experience that rivals the world's most iconic retreats, such as Aman. Here, luxury is not just seen or felt—it's lived, in every moment.

Hi, I'm Prithvi.

With over 2,000 glowing 5-star reviews for premium properties in New York City priced between $300-$600 per night, I have established a reputation for delivering exceptional guest experiences. As an 18-time Airbnb Superhost, four out of the six properties I've managed ranked in the top 1% globally, consistently driving mid six-figure annual revenues since 2018 and proving my ability to transform hospitality ventures into thriving, profitable businesses.

My entrepreneurial journey highlights a deep passion for creating unique spaces. I founded and operated Velvet House Tulum, a restaurant celebrated as the finest Indian dining destination in the region, recognized for its innovation and quality. Then acquired land and developed a boutique hotel in Tulum, Mexico, navigating the complexities of foreign business environments to achieve a successful exit.

As a Cornell MBA, engineer, and internationally published photographer and DJ, I bring a dynamic mix of technical expertise, business acumen, and creative vision. My experience spans e-commerce merchandising, construction, customer experience platforms, and digital sales, equipping me to craft scalable, guest-centric ventures that drive loyalty and revenue.

Having lived internationally and traveled to over 30 countries, my love for hospitality is rooted in immersion—exploring cultures, cuisines, and human stories. These experiences inspire my commitment to designing spaces that evoke joy, connection, and transformation, ensuring guests leave with light hearts and lasting smiles.

With a focus on thoughtful design, operational precision, and innovation, I aim to redefine hospitality by creating experiences that resonate deeply, leaving a lasting impact on guests and communities alike.
